FISCAL ANALYSIS

ASSUMPTION

Officials from the St. Louis Metropolitan Police Department assume this proposal would not fiscally impact their agency.

Officials of the City of St. Louis assume this proposal would have a negative effect on the City. Officials stated that most of the 1,500 uniformed officers are required to live within the City of St. Louis. Officials assume to remove the residency requirement could have a negative effect on housing values, and could in turn lead to a reduction in property tax receipts. Sales taxes and other revenues generated by the typical City resident could also see declines.

Oversight assumes no direct fiscal impact.

FISCAL IMPACT - Small Business

No direct fiscal impact to small businesses would be expected as a result of this proposal.

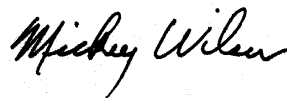

DESCRIPTION

This proposal prohibits the City of St. Louis from requiring police officers with at least seven years experience to reside in the city. The seven years of employment as a police officer must be consecutive, but may include part-time employment. The proposal also prohibits the city from discriminating against any nonresident peace officer. The city may require a peace officer to reside in Missouri as a condition of employment. The city may provide incentives, such as housing supplements or vehicle-use guidelines, to encourage peace officers to reside in the city, but may not authorize the use of department property as an incentive.

This legislation is not federally mandated, would not duplicate any other program and would not require additional capital improvements or rental space.
