

HB 1287 -- Noncertificated School Employees

Sponsor: George

Currently, certificated employees in all school districts and noncertificated employees in the St. Louis City school district have due process as specified by law. This bill requires that all noncertificated employees be appointed and promoted pursuant to rules adopted by the local school board. During the board-specified probationary period, an employee whose work is unsatisfactory may be dismissed one month after written notice if the employee's work does not improve as required. After the probationary period, permanent employees will receive the same due process given to certificated teachers.