FISCAL ANALYSIS

ASSUMPTION

Officials from the Department of Revenue assume the proposal would have no fiscal impact on their organization.

Officials from the University of Missouri Economic Policy and Research Center (EPARC) assume this proposal would phase out the corporate income tax rate. Over the next three years, the rate would decline from 6.25 percent to 5 percent on September 1, 2007. The rate would decline to 3.75 percent on September 1, 2008, falling to 2.5 percent on September 1, 2009 and finally declining to 1.25 on September 1, 2010.

The current corporate income file does not distinguish between corporate income and franchise taxes. For Fiscal Year 2006, declarations for corporate income were $363.1 million. This tax payment would be consistent with the base--that is, corporate income--being $5,809.6 million. EPARC assumes that corporate income is earned evenly across the calendar year. Thus, monthly corporate income would be $484.1 per month. In calendar year 2007, the corporate tax would be $($484.1 * 8 * .0625) + ($484.1 * 4 * .05) = $338.9$ million. Thus, corporate income tax revenue would decline by $24.2 million. In 2008, the revenues generated by the corporate income tax would be $266.3 million, representing a $96.8 million reduction compared to revenue earned in 2006. In 2009, corporate income tax revenue would be $193.6 million, or $169.5 million less than 2006 levels. Finally in 2010, corporate income tax revenue would be $121.1 million, or $242.1 million less than 2006 level.

Oversight assumes that calendar year corporate income tax revenues would be recorded in the following state fiscal year; for example, 2007 calendar year revenue would be state fiscal year 2008 revenue.

Officials from the Office of Administration, Division of Budget and Planning did not respond to our request for information.
