FISCAL ANALYSIS

ASSUMPTION

In response to similar legislation from this year, SB 3, officials from the Office of Administration stated §516.140(1) changes the statute of limitation for personal injury claims from five years to two years. This provision has the potential to avoid costs to the state Legal Expense Fund (LEF) for actions alleging negligence against a state employee, due to the limiting time period for bringing such cause of action. However, the amount of such cost savings is unknown as the number of potential claims that may be asserted against the state, the severity of those claims, and the ultimate costs associated with any settlement or judgment resulting from those claims cannot be forecasted with any degree of assurance to their accuracy.

The state self-assumes its own liability under the state LEF, Section 105.711, RSMo. It is a selffunding mechanism whereby funds are made available for the payment of any claim or judgment rendered against the state in regard to the waivers of sovereign immunity or against employees and specified and individuals. Investigation, defense, negotiation or settlement of such claims is provided by the Office of the Attorney General. Payment is made by the Commissioner of Administration with the approval of the Attorney General.

Officials from the Attorney General's Office (AGO) and the Office of the State Courts Administrator each assume the proposal will have no fiscal impact on their respective organizations. Oversight does not have any information to the contrary. Therefore, Oversight will reflect a zero impact in the fiscal note for these agencies.

Oversight notes information from www.alllaw.com lists the Statute of Limitations on Personal Injury Lawsuits by State. That information is as follows:

1 year	2 year	3 year	4 year	5 year	6 year

The Department of Labor and Industrial Relations' website says "The Tort Victims' Compensation Fund exists to help compensate those who have been injured due to the negligence or recklessness of another (such as in a motor vehicle collision or a hunting accident), and who have been unable to obtain full compensation because the party at fault (the tortfeasor) had no insurance, or inadequate insurance, or has filed for bankruptcy, or for other reasons specified by the law."

Oversight notes that under §537.675.3, 50% of the punitive damage state judgments, after deducting attorney's fees and expenses, shall go into the Tort Victims' Compensation Fund

(0622). Because this proposal tends to reduce punitive damages awards by reducing the time frame to file suit, Oversight assumes a negative direct fiscal impact to the Tort Victims Compensation Fund.

Information provided by the Attorney General shows that between July, 2014, and December, 2019, the Tort Victims Compensation Fund received $20,043,083. During that period, average annual payments into the Tort Victims Compensation Fund (TVCF) were $3,644,197.

Oversight does not know how many cases affected by this proposal would not be brought because of the change in the statute of limitations.

The AGO does not track the types of claims paying into the TVCF, so this number is likely an overestimate, as it includes claims not affected by this proposal. Because Oversight was unable to get more specific information about the number of claims filed between two and five years after the claim arose, Oversight will show a $0 to (unknown) to the TVCF.

Legal Expense Fund (LEF) - $0 to unknown

"The State Legal Expense Fund (LEF) is used for payments in resolution of judgments or claims for damages from injured parties arising out of the actions of state employees, agencies, contracted physicians, and the condition of state property." Audit Report No. 2017-098

Officials from the Office of Administration did not respond to Oversight's request for fiscal impact for this proposal. However, information from the Office of Administration (OARM) from SB 633 from 2020 shows that the LEF spent $14,900,000 on personal injury and wrongful death claims in FY 2015-2018. The annual average of those claims is $3,725,000.

According to information from OARM, 20% of the LEF's funds comes from other state funds, implying $0 up to $3,725,000 annually reduced LEF expenditures, with $2,980,000 through General Revenue appropriations, and $745,000 from other funds.

Oversight notes that these numbers are likely an overestimate, as it includes claims that could be brought within two years. Because Oversight was unable to get more specific information about the number of claims filed between two and five years after the claim arose, Oversight will show a $0 to unknown net direct fiscal impact.

FISCAL DESCRIPTION

Currently, actions for personal injury must be brought within five years from the date the injury occurred. This bill reduces the time frame to two years from when the injury occurred.

This legislation is not federally mandated, would not duplicate any other program and would not require additional capital improvements or rental space.
