Part of the animal rights movement is to end the use of animals in any manner. We support laws that seek to protect the use and enjoyment of animals that have become a national heritage, such as carriage rides, circuses, petting zoos, etc.

The City of St. Louis opposes HB 647 and HB 841 because they would prohibit any form of regulation to ensure the health and safety of both the public as well as the working animals. For example, regulations outlining operating hours for horse carriages in the City of St. Louis ensure horse carriages are not operating on heavily trafficked streets in downtown St. Louis during rush hour which protect others on the road, pedestrians, carriage riders, and the carriage horses. Without regulation in the past, the City of St. Louis has seen some unfortunate situations unfold that resulted in the deaths of carriage horses and injuries sustained by carriage customers and the public. Without some reasonable regulations the City of St. Louis, the public, and good operators are all susceptible to frivolous lawsuits.
