I want to submit this testimony on behalf of all those with auto-immune conditions. Most of us know after many years of research that we are dealing with this health issues as a direct result to the intentional adulterating of our foods being made, grown or packaged by the food conglomerates. We under no circumstances want any mRNA introduced into any of our animals, products or foods. Keep the gene editing out of our bodies!Angela OngSt Francois County MO.

On behalf of our members and supporters, the Freedom Principle MO strongly supports HB 1169. Currently, Big Pharma and the Medical-Industrial Complex are experimenting with growing medicine-filled plants and meat to replace injections that could lead to a potential threat to our food supply. Why are they doing this? It is because the world has seen the horrors of what the COVID vaccine has done to the human body and now has become vaccine-hesitant. According to the USDA, hormones are not allowed in the raising of hogs or poultry. However, the USDA does not state anything about gene-altering therapy technology. Also, the USDA does allow hormones in beef, but they can be labeled "No Hormones" if they provide sufficient documentation to the agency. Meat or poultry products can be labeled as "No Antibiotics" if they provide sufficient documentation to the USDA. Again, nothing regarding the use of "Gene Altering Therapy" type of technology. This bill would require any entity that produces, sells, or distributes a product with the capacity to infect an individual with a disease or to expose an individual to certain genetically modified material must provide all information related to the ways in which the person would be exposed to the product. The Freedom Principle MO supports individual medical freedom and Missourians must be fully informed and at a minimum must be made aware of all the benefits and risks, including side effects of these products. Missourians were lied to by the CDC, Big Pharma, Dr. Fauci, the Biden Administration, the Federal Drug Administration, the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services, and the media. The ongoing emergence of scientific data evidence disproves the narrative of the jabs being "safe and effective" and has uncovered one of the most appalling crimes against humanity. Our food supply is being threatened by the Medical Industrial Complex. The only way to make sure the food we eat, and the products we use on our bodies do not contain these gene-altering therapies is to require the companies to label their products and let the consumer decide for themselves.

Please support HB 1169. This is a health and safety concern for the people of Missouri. The news that scientists could be integrating mRNA vaccines and other gene-altering therapy technology into our food supply is extremely disturbing. (This should be banned.) Our food supply should be pure and safe from such experimentation. The people of Missouri should not have to worry that our safe food supply is being tampered with. I think this is not only dangerous but also unethical. Any such product should be required to be conspicuously labeled as "Gene Therapy Product" or even "Potential Gene Therapy Product" as HB 1169 would require. The people of Missouri deserve informed consent. Protect the people of Missouri. Thank you.

I support this bill because we as citizens and constituents of Missouri have a right to know what is being put in our food supply and products that has the possibility fo being dangerous and/or deadly. Introducing genetic technology into our food source is very experimental and is of concern, especially after witnessing the results of the genetic experiment that is the mRNA shots.Please support this bill so we can feel confident in what we are consuming and that no companies who focus solely on profits over consumer outcomes will benefit at our expense.Thank you for taking the time to read this!Kate Sickles

As a nurse, I'm appalled and saddened to know that our once fine and noble profession, founded on the principles of patients first and "first do no harm" from our medical colleagues.....has been run rough shod over by the pharmaceutical industry!! Big Pharma is NO FRIEND to patients OR their providers. Just as the FDA requires all food and drug labels to be inclusive of ingredients, expiration dates, etc.....Pharmaceuticals MUST be transparent in their ingredients. In. All. Things.

Dear Representatives, We need this bill to pass asap! Missourians have a need to know with full disclosure, what they are facing when they choose to use products made available to them. While you or your friends may not have any problems eating a candy bar with peanuts or taking a vaccine, others will, and therefore, strong product disclosure laws like this one are a must! There may be a place for certain gene therapy drugs (as there is with other drugs) but Missourians must be able to have all facts presented to them so that reasonable, informed choices can be correctly made. Thank you for supporting HB 1169.

I support HB1169, and I do not want things introduced into my food without my knowledge, and this is why I hope this bill gets passed. The Freedom Principle MO supports individual medical freedom and Missourians must be fully informed and at a minimum must be made aware of all the benefits and risks, including side effects of these products. Missourians were lied to by the CDC, Big Pharma, Dr. Fauci, the Biden Administration, the Federal Drug Administration, the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services, and the media. The emergence of actual scientific data evidence disproves the narrative of the jabs being "safe and effective" and has uncovered one of the most appalling crimes against humanity. Our food supply is being threatened by the Medical Industrial Complex. The only way to make sure the food we eat, and the products we use on our bodies do not contain these gene-altering therapies is to require the companies to label their products and let the consumer decide for themselves.

The Missouri Biotechnology Association respectfully expresses our serious opposition to HB 1169. Our concerns include the following: • HB 1169 is unnecessary, as federal law and jurisdiction are already in place. • HB 1169 comingles and convolutes established scientific processes that already have investigational, clinical, and regulatory meanings, which will set Missouri statutes at odds with other states, the federal government, and foreign trade partners. • HB 1169 will have a chilling effect on how we market Missouri as a welcoming biosciences ecosystem. • HB 1169 enables provisions that will open the floodgates on proprietary disclosures, harming researchers, biotech start-up entrepreneurs, and Missouri bioscience employers. Initiating a state labeling mandate that leverages vaccine hesitancy while needlessly stoking the public's food fears and scaring consumers is irresponsible. Our US Congress passed federal legislation in 2016, originally sponsored by Congressman Mike Pompeo of Kansas, to avert what it feared would be a patchwork of inconsistent state-by-state regulations across our country. This national interstate commerce standard under the United States Department of Agriculture (USDA) also bans and preempts individual state labeling laws on food products. That seven-year-old law of the land already directs food manufacturers on the different regulatory pathways - including organic, natural, and genetically engineered. All citizens desire that products in our food supply chain are regulated appropriately for safety and efficacy claims that can be scientifically evaluated and/or validated. The USDA and the Food and Drug Administration (FDA) are the world's gold evaluation standards. Collectively, we should be united on strengthening the scientific depth and expertise at these important agencies. In 2019, the United States Department of Agriculture announced it was moving two of its key agencies' headquarters to Missouri. USDA's Economic Research Service and the National Institute of Food and Agriculture's headquarters are located at 805 Pennsylvania Avenue in Kansas City, Missouri. More than 500 new jobs shifted from the nation's capital to the heartland. HB 1169 could be seen as an affront to that decision to relocate to our state. At a minimum, it will be seen as a lack of understanding by Missouri of the USDA's appropriate role and importance. In terms of economic development, House Bill 1169 would be a major disqualifier for any plant science company looking to locate in Missouri. Site locators must be able to recommend that Missouri has the right business environment, with the appropriate respect and understanding for plant science researchers. Lumping together overly broad definitions for the terms "gene therapy product" and "genetically modified" is an overreach that will negatively impact many constituencies. For example, Missouri's corn and soybean row crop farmers utilize gene-edited seed in over 90% of their plantings. Farmers make seed decisions and purchases around the first of each calendar year. An unintended consequence of having this or any Missouri harvest segregated from export markets could hurt Missouri farmers, which is the critical driver for much of Missouri's rural economy, an agricultural industry valued at $94 billion for Missouri. The agtech workforce consists of more than 460,000 Missourians, as presented by the Missouri Partnership. Missouri policymakers should be embracing the scientific and medical advancements behind gene therapy products and Missouri's role in contributing to this scientific knowledge base. In addition, Missouri policymakers should be aware that biosciences have been one of the state's top economic and strategic sectors for the last two decades, delivering that new economic growth to our state. MOBIO provides additional information for your situational analysis. We hope it is helpful. Thank you for allowing us to share the policy ramifications of HB 1169.

Chairman Hardwick and Members of the Committee: I write on behalf of the Biotechnology Innovation Organization (BIO) to express concern and opposition to House Bill 1169, legislation to require disclosure of contents of certain health care products and genetically modified food. BIO is the world's largest trade association representing biotechnology companies, academic institutions, state biotechnology centers and related organizations across the United States and more than 30 other nations. BIO members are involved in research and development of innovative healthcare, agricultural, industrial, and environmental biotechnology products. We are proud partners with Missouri BIO. Prescription drug labels and prescribing information must comply with federal regulation and receive approval from the US Food and Drug Administration ("FDA") before going to market. When new evidence becomes known that a drug on the market may be associated with a scientifically validated risk of harm, a drug manufacturer may add or strengthen existing warning labels without first obtaining FDA approval, in accordance with Changes Being Effected (CBE) regulations. Absent new evidence, or other material safety discoveries, FDA-approved drug labels cannot be changed by the manufacturer without a comprehensive science-based justification being made to FDA. As such, ancillary labeling requirements under state law are generally preempted. In the case of HB 1169, the proposed state requirement bears no relation to a safety or efficacy claim that would otherwise merit a label change by FDA. We are also concerned that genetically engineered crops used to produce food would also be impacted by the requirements included in HB 1169 since the bill's definition of "genetically modified" is so broad and sweeping. A federal law enacted in 2016 establishes a national standard for disclosure of bioengineered food, which also precludes state and local governments from adopting their own standards for labeling of food with genetically modified content. HB 1169 clearly violates the 2016 law's preemption provision. BIO is opposed to HB 1169 and we respectfully urge you and your colleagues in the Missouri House of Representatives to not advance this bill any further. I appreciate your time and consideration. Please feel free to contact me if you have any questions regarding this matter. Thank you, Lilly Melander

Rep. Aune expressed concerns with the possibility that this bill run afoul of the federal preemption of laws relating to foods that have been genetically modified. This bill, on the other hand, relates to food (and other items) that potentially modify a person's genetics. -----Therefore, Rep. Aune's concerns are misplaced. There is no preemption problem.

Just in case anybody thinks that the messenger RNA vaccines against COVID-19 might change human DNA: they won't. They contain messenger RNA coding for viral antigens in order to stimulate the immune system. They do NOT contain RNA coding for reverse transcriptase, the enzyme needed to transcribe RNA sequences backwards into DNA. Even the SARS-CoV-2 virus itself does not include coding for reverse transcriptase (some viruses do, but SARS-CoV-2 is not one of them). Your DNA is safe from these vaccines.
