I oppose the elimination of the Personnel Advisory Board and the transfer of its duties to the Division of Personnel within the Office of Administration. I am concerned that eliminating the PAB may lead to a lack of oversight and accountability for personnel issues within state departments and agencies. The Division of Personnel may not have the same level of expertise or resources as the PAB to effectively address personnel issues and ensure non-discrimination. Consolidating the duties of the PAB into the Division of Personnel may lead to a conflict of interest, as the Division of Personnel may be more focused on serving the needs of the Governor and state agencies rather than advocating for employees. The bill may not provide enough detail on how the Division of Personnel will take on the duties of the PAB, leaving room for ambiguity and potential confusion.
