First of all, why did no one speak to the constituents before deciding to put forth this bill? We don't want another government run school in St. Charles County. This is not education reform. Charter schools could easily turn into special interests run schools, especially when they remove the elected school board representation of "We The People" (yet still take our tax dollars to fund them).

In opposition to the proposed expansion of charter schools, there are several critical concerns that warrant careful consideration. One primary apprehension revolves around resource allocation, as the expansion may divert essential funds away from traditional public schools, potentially leading to budget cuts and a subsequent decline in overall educational quality and extracurricular programs. Another significant issue is the perceived lack of accountability associated with charter schools, raising concerns about inadequate oversight, financial mismanagement, and academic performance disparities. Additionally, worries arise regarding exclusionary practices, with fears that charter schools may implement selective admission criteria, potentially excluding certain students and compromising the principle of inclusive education. The broader impact on the public education system is a crucial consideration, as charter school expansion may contribute to fragmentation, potentially jeopardizing community cohesion and the overall health of the public education system. Moreover, concerns extend to the working conditions of teachers, including job security and potential disparities in compensation compared to their counterparts in public schools. Lastly, the potential lack of community engagement in decision-making processes related to charter school expansion underscores the importance of aligning educational developments with the preferences and needs of the local community.

As a parent and taxpayer, I am vehemently opposed to these charter school "education reform" bills that are a blatant attempt to erode the public school system in our state. Charter schools should be sponsored by and accountable to the local community through the elected school board and approved only after an impact study is conducted by the district to consider the proposal. The removal of the enforcement mechanism to investigate educational neglect is unconscionable. My tax dollars are meant to fund PUBLIC schools, which benefit the PUBLIC good. I should not be forced to tacitly support charter or other private schools, especially when they have minimal oversight. It is a recipe for financial abuse, not to mention the potential harm to students.

Any expansion of charter schools would be detrimental to public education in the communities they intend to serve by further diluting the funding mechanisms in place, which are already subpar. There is empirical evidence that public schools provide the most consistently successful education to students and that success will be put in jeopardy. The majority of children in our communities will continue to attend public schools, which are required to serve EVERY child in a community. But they will be required to serve students with LESS money, further eroding the success and trust in public education in our communities and in our state as a whole.

I want my tax dollars going toward improving public schools. Parents that want to send their children to private schools have the resources to send their children. They don't need our tax dollars. Charter schools have very little curriculum that adheres to state and federal requirements and unqualified parents should not be telling my children or grandchildren what they should be learning. Qualified professionals should. Stop funding elitist schools and help children become better students and citizens by providing more funding to public schools and PAY TEACHERS MORE.

Any bill that expands charter schools without accountability is going to make the playing field for public schools less even than it is now. Moving public money into charter schools is going to harm neighborhood public schools and is going to keep feeding this crisis in education, further dismantling it Thankfully, during the hearing today, the bill sponsor made it abundantly clear in his commentary. The values argument is primary and the charter expansion would benefit conservatives of a certain demographic, not lower socio-economic students. It's a way to get public money to fund regressive, and/or religious ideology. There is nothing in the bill to prevent a sponsor entity being an ideological non-profit. There is not accountability for performance other than closings. If a reason for charter expansion is that people want alternatives to public schools because of differing values and want schools that reflect those shared values, then everyone's values should be respected. So now that the quiet part has been said out loud, it makes charter expansion even more inappropriate for the state of Missouri. Additionally charter schools come in to neighborhoods promising a better deal and siphon students from neighborhood public schools and their census falls to the point of staff reduction. Charters close or simply refuse to serve a student for any number of reasons, then the public school has to take students BUT now they're shortstaffed. Vote no on charter expansion. I attended in person but had to leave for the Senate hearing

THE INFORMATION ON THIS FORM IS PUBLIC RECORD UNDER CHAPTER 610, RSMo.

As a retired educator and product of public schools, who worked 29 years in Catholic Schools and sent both of my children to Catholics schools from grades K-12, I firmly believe that investing in and strengthening our public education system is the key to ensuring a brighter future for all. I also strongly believe in separation of church and state. First and foremost, public schools are the cornerstone of our communities. They bring together students from diverse backgrounds, fostering a sense of unity and social cohesion. By attending public schools, children learn to appreciate and respect the differences that make our society vibrant and inclusive. Charter schools, on the other hand, often cater to specific groups or interests, potentially exacerbating social divisions. Moreover, public schools are accountable to the community they serve. They are subject to rigorous regulations and oversight, ensuring that taxpayer dollars are spent wisely and transparently. In contrast, charter schools often operate with less scrutiny, leading to concerns about financial mismanagement and the misuse of public funds. We must prioritize accountability to ensure that every dollar invested in education is used to its fullest potential. Another crucial aspect to consider is the impact on students with special needs or those who require additional support. Public schools are legally obligated to provide equal access to education for all students, regardless of their abilities. They have the resources and expertise to offer specialized programs and services, ensuring that every child receives the support they need to thrive. Charter schools, however, may not always have the same level of commitment or capacity to accommodate students with diverse needs. Furthermore, public schools are the backbone of educational research and innovation. They serve as laboratories for testing new teaching methods, curriculum development, and educational policies. By investing in public education, we can collectively drive progress and improve the quality of education for all students. Charter schools, while sometimes innovative, often operate in isolation, limiting the potential for widespread positive change. Lastly, let us not forget the dedicated teachers and staff who work tirelessly in our public schools. They are the unsung heroes who shape the minds of future generations. By supporting public education, we can provide them with the resources, training, and fair compensation they deserve. This, in turn, will attract and retain talented educators, ensuring a high-quality education for all students. In conclusion, I urge you to reconsider the expansion of charter schools and instead focus on strengthening our public education system. By doing so, we can foster inclusivity, accountability, and innovation, while providing equal opportunities for all students. Let us work together to build a future where every child has access to a high-quality education that prepares them for success in an ever-changing world. Thank you for your time and consideration.

We oppose this bill. Charter schools are allowed to select their students while public schools must take any and all students in their district, thus burdening their resources. Charter schools drain funds away from public schools, whose funding is based on the number of students attending. The greater the number of charter schools in an area, the more severely underfunded the public schools become. Public education used to be one of our nation's strengths but now support and funding are going to private schools under the guise of vouchers and charters. The increasing privatization of education is harmful to students, teachers, and our country overall.

THE INFORMATION ON THIS FORM IS PUBLIC RECORD UNDER CHAPTER 610, RSMo.

Testimony – HB 1485 Christ, HB 1764 Hicks, HB 1941 Toalsen - Special Committee on Education Reform – Chair Bishop Davidson - January 17th, 2024 – House Hearing Room 7 Chairman and members of the Committee, my name is Gail Griswold. I am the President of Camdenton School Board of Education and a lobbyist for ArmorVine. I want to thank you for allowing testimony today on three (3) Charter School expansion bills. Charter Schools are not on a level playing field as Public Schools. They are not Accredited by the State Department of Elementary and Secondary Education, DESE, like Missouri Public Schools. They are exempt from resource and process standards under MSIP that public schools are required to implement. Charter schools receive an APR score but they are not subject to Accreditation like public schools. Charter Schools do not have to have certified Superintendents, certified Principals, or certified Teachers like Public Schools do. This is not free market competition. The free market doesn't shackle one group and not the other and expect them to compete on unequal footing. This model of public private partnerships is extremely irresponsible and goes free market principals. Public schools will never ever be able to operate on a free market, especially with DESE's boot on the neck of the schools. From an efficiency standpoint, how many schools does the state need to fund? Is expanding the budget to fund more schools a conservative approach to policy? I have listened to Republicans complain about DEI, SEL, Secular Humanism, etc in public schools, but have yet to have a Republican acknowledge what is being taught in Missouri Charter Schools. A simple online search into each of the current Charter Schools currently operating in Missouri will lead you to statements like these on their website: "Unraveling Whiteness." "The Unraveling Whiteness Course utilizes several modalities to frame our time together;" -This is a course based on the book by Robin DeAngelo call "White Fragility" and Shelly Tochluk's "Whiteness Whiteness." "We are KC's first and only public, single-gender school." "We work to build a feminist, antiracist space where young women support and challenge one another in true sisterhood."

Anti-racism and Anti-bias are critical theories that state that it is ok to discriminate against one race to left up another race. KIPP Charters is one of the largest Charter School organizations in the State and across the U.S. They are built up of alumni from the Teach for America program. Teach for America, TFA, is a program that takes college graduates from any degree and puts them into a training program, then sends them into a charter school for two (2) years to "teach" and then sends those individuals to work in government policy. Examples from the KIPP website include statements like: "Becoming An Anti-Racist Organization" "In pursuit of our commitment to becoming an Anti-Racist organization, KIPP SoCal Public Schools have adopted Anti-Racist Policy & Standards that acknowledge our power and responsibility to take a leading stance against systemic racism, discrimination, bias, and educational injustice. Last year the general assembly passed HB 447 that has left the door open for DESE to mandate secular humanism. For example, last year, SB 381 was passed out of a Senate committee and added to HB 447 that was passed the General Assembly and was signed by the Governor. In that legislation, there was a provision to go around the public comment laws outlined in the 2014 bill HB 1490, the anti-common core bill, that the moms against common core fought for. Section 160.527 states "The requirements of section 160.514 shall not apply to this section." That section of the law has given DESE free rein and is now conducting a work group with tenants of secular humanism and its praxis that will soon be recommended to the State Board of Education with no public comment allowed. I urge this committee to not spread the disease of secular humanism running rampant in charter schools and instead focus on reining in the overreach of DESE. Thank you, Gail Griswold (Image examples quoted in this testimony will be presented at hearing.)

I oppose forming charter schools in missouri. I previously lived in a state that claimed school choice but instead had strict entry requirements, took tax revenue from public school that left even the better districts scraping by for funding. This isn't about doing what is right, it is about dismantling public education. The current charter schools have not proved themselves valid. So to funnel even more state funds earmarked for SPLS without educational and fiscal oversight by the elected school board is a completely irresponsible. Missouri ranks 49th in the county for public school funding while sitting on a $4 BILLION+ surplus. Perhaps putting that money toward the school districts the state has strangled into 4 day school weeks would be a better use of legislative time.

Greetings, My message is the same for all three bills (HB1764, HB1485 and HB1941). I do not support these bills. The solution to degraded performance of the public (ie government sponsored and run) schools is not another government school option. The solution is eliminating the clear and present danger to educational excellence in the state of Missouri which is the Missouri Department of Elementary and Secondary Education. The only way the kids in our state have a real chance of having a solid education based on the classical foundations of reading, writing, arithmetic, science, apolitical history and civics is the wholesale elimination or defunding of DESE. Government schools have failed Missouri's kids for many years now and is directly tied to the progressive politically active DESE running public (ie government) education that is more interested indoctrinating kids than actually teaching real things. Kids should never be inflicted with politically divisive materials and yet that's exactly what DESE has promulgated statewide for years now and the results are clearly shown in Missouri's educational performance in comparison to other states. That is simply unacceptable. I'm quite honestly stunned Conservative Republicans are pushing this as a solution and calling it a win for "school choice". The only "school choice" that would mean anything is either abolishing or hollowing out DESE's gargantuan influence in the government school system throughout the state. Their budget has become enormous under the leadership of Republicans and with this leviathan continuing to be fed with reckless fiscal abandon, there is no hope for our kid's to get a quality education through the government solutions. DESE must be dealt with seriously or else all of this is fluff and poppycock that isn't really worth the paper it's written on. More government isn't the solution and I sincerely thought the GOP of Missouri understood this loud and clear. I guess not. Please vote NO. Thank you for your time and consideration. Jason T. THE INFORMATION ON THIS FORM IS PUBLIC RECORD UNDER CHAPTER 610, RSMo.

Charter school expansion into St Charles County is a solution looking for a problem. Expansion of charter schools should not occur when they are not held to the same standards as public schools. Charter school board are appointed, not voted on by stakeholders of that school, so the public has no say in who governs that school. They are not required to abide by the same laws and regulations that public schools are required to follow. They accept public money, though do not have the same requirements for transparency in their financial as public schools would have. The assumption that charter schools help by competition with public schools is false. They are allowed to fail with no consequences is another issue that is not the case with public schools. The money taken away from public schools to fund charter schools that turns into stranded costs when children leave for a charter schools is an issue without additional funding to fix that stranded cost issue. If enough students leave for charter schools, it can cause a downward spiral of causing public schools to fail, which defeats the purpose of the competition that charter schools are supposed to provide. Without the ability to work on the same level as a public school, with the same requirements, especially with the need to accept all students and provide special educations services as needed for students, charter schools are working on an unfair advantage to public schools.

My name is Josh Wilcutt, and I reside in the city of Saint Charles school district. 18.7% of our student body has IEP's. We hold the largest number of IEP students in the county. Charter schools in STC county is not a good idea for students with IEP's. It will cause further division in our communities that is un-necessary. Further in this population it is critical for these students to be part of the main student body as much as possible. So, they can learn key skills such as recognizing body language to empower them to be active members of our community and gain employment outside of school. Special education will not be fixed with a change in placement. It will be fixed when board members start holding staff accountable for law violations. If a parent has an issue with their students IEP one method, they can use is to take it to the school board- when their policies and laws are not being followed and admin has done nothing to correct the violator. We should be able to elect those people, be able to vet them, and use our vote to get them in and OUT of office. Please consider the devastating effect this has on one of the most vulnerable populations. With SCOTUS ruling in perez v sturgis parents can sue under ADA. The laws are one of the only defenses a parent has.

Charter schools in Missouri have poor outcomes and poor performance records for the most part. They are also not well run with few exceptions. We should be supporting our local public schools instead of competing with them. And creating more charter schools so people can refuse to teach things that are known facts but they don't want to teach is not education. I work in the field of education and have seen what happens when money is diverted to charter schools rather than trying to make local schools better Charter schools divert the little money Missouri Public Education receives. Poorer districts depend on that money! I personally taught in a district where the average student has to drive 30 minutes just to get to school. This school already depended heavily on state funding. How will more charter schools help them?

The Missouri Legislature is pushing a number of bills that take money from Missouri's public schools, which are already struggling for funding. These bills reinforce redlining and worsen education inequality. HB1764 would allow charter schools in more places. Charter schools pull thousands of students and associated state/local tax dollars away from Missouri's public schools and help lead to situations where public schools are underfunded and closing. These charter schools have no accountability or oversight and don't answer to elected school boards like public schools do. Over half of the charters in Missouri have already closed, at which point students must go back to public schools that may no longer exist. Missouri has a long history of valuing quality education. Black Missourians in St. Louis docked a steamboat in the middle of the Mississippi river to create the Floating Freedom School and secure their education in the mid-1800s. German immigrants to Missouri in the 1800s made kindergarten a national standard. Unfortunately, we've gone backwards in recent years and now rank at the bottom of the nation in education due to misguided bills like these. I urge you to oppose all these bills and fully fund and support public schools and teachers to provide a free quality education to all of Missouri's children, allowing them to learn, grow, and thrive.

I am a 17 year public educator, parent to a child who attends a public school, and a tax-paying citizen — and I oppose these bills with these three roles in mind. Charter schools lack the transparency, oversight, and regulation that is required in nearly every area of society funded by taxes, and charter schools should be no different. It is imperative that uses of tax payer money be monitored to prevent fraud / misuse of funds and to ensure educational outcomes expected. At this time, charter schools are not held to this standard, which is why they are chronically plagued in financial distress and why they under-perform on standardized tests. I am not opposed to private schools nor differentiated schools; I am opposed to publicly funding these schools as they are currently operating in our state.

The League of Women Voters of Missouri opposes the expansion of charter schools because they are not held to the same standards as traditional public schools and the majority of them have failed and closed. It would be a disservice to the citizens of Missouri to continue to foist the failed charter school experiment onto our communities. • Charter schools are not held to the same standards as traditional public schools. They are “freed” from having to comply with most state regulations that are designed to ensure a minimum level of adequacy, including being accredited by the Missouri Department of Elementary and Secondary Education. For example, 100% of faculty in traditional public schools must meet state certification standards, while only 80% of charter school faculty members must be appropriately certificated. • Charter schools are not required to serve their “fair share” of students who present many challenges such as students with significant disabilities, students who are homeless, and students recently released from juvenile detention programs. This inequity results in higher concentrations of students that require significantly more resources in traditional public schools. • Charter schools are governed by boards that are privately appointed, not elected, and such boards often employ private for-profit corporations to operate publicly funded charter schools. This significantly weakens accountability and contributes to citizens becoming “disinvested” from their local public schools. • There is an unfounded belief that charter schools are superior to traditional public schools and therefore provide parents with an advantageous choice. Studies of charter school academic achievement do not demonstrate that they are better than traditional public schools.

The Missouri State Teachers Association opposes charter school expansion if not granted by the local school board within an existing accredited Missouri public school district and the charter encourages the best Missouri educators to participate by requiring at least the same certification and compensation standards of other public schools in the district, as well as making certain that tenure status are not reduced or lost as a result of teaching in the public charter school. MSTA further supports requiring all members of a public charter school board be residents of the district in which the charter school serves.

I am in opposition to this bill because of the multiple problematic issues surrounding charter schools in regards to equity. Charter schools take money from traditional public schools that provide an education to all students. Charter schools are selective. Historically, charter schools have not accepted students from underserved families. Charter schools have very little oversight. Equity recognizes that each student has different needs and allocates the resources and opportunities needed to reach an equal outcome. Charter schools are not equipped to address the needs of all students, therefore, they do not have the ability to be equitable.

Charter Schools seemed like a great idea in the 70's, but, the reality is that Charter Schools put profit over education, and keep education segregated. They operate like privileged, private schools-no diversity and no accountability to students, teachers, or their communities. We are the "Show-Me" State because we are skeptics and need to see the evidence. With Charter Schools the evidence is clear, administrators get rich, students and teachers pay the price. Just follow the money to know why any Missouri legislator supports charter school expansion.

Charter schools are not supported by the research, and any effectiveness that may be documented in some charter schools could be replicated in public schools, with the right supports in place. Taxpayer money is for public schools, not for moneymaking ventures.

There seems to be a lack of interventions in the public school system, despite parental requests. This, coupled with a lack of progress despite parental support, raises concerns about the effectiveness of the current educational approach. It is essential to address these issues within the public school system rather than opting for charter schools, which appear to mirror the same challenges. Taxpayers, who contribute to the funding of these educational initiatives, deserve a voice in how their money is spent. Private schools may not be financially accessible to every parent, emphasizing the need to strengthen and improve our public education system. Parents play a vital role in shaping their children's education, and the current setup limits their involvement in the curriculum decision-making process. Education should empower students to learn how to think, not dictate what they should think. Parental involvement is crucial, as effective education requires a full partnership between home and school. This line seems to be further divided every new year...I have personally observed that neighboring school districts, as well as private and classical schools, are outperforming the Wentzville School District my three children attend. Data from sources such as the DESE website, I-Ready scores, MAP scores, and NWEA scores indicate that students are falling behind. There is a significant lack of proficiency and grade level learning in ELA, Math, and Science. I sincerely ask you to consider these concerns and work towards a more inclusive and effective educational system that values parental input and fosters the growth of our students. Respectfully, Mrs. Tara Nielsen

THE INFORMATION ON THIS FORM IS PUBLIC RECORD UNDER CHAPTER 610, RSMo.

I am the Rev. Dr. Teresa Danieley, President of the Parent Teacher Organization at Mann Elementary School in St. Louis Public Schools, Missioner for Public Advocacy for the Episcopal Diocese of Missouri, and Champions Organizer for Missouri Jobs with Justice. All three of my children attend St. Louis Public Schools. Charter schools are a scourge on our state, our democracy and the future of our children. Their expansion must be stopped. They divide up communities, destabilize neighborhoods and school districts and waste money. In the City of St. Louis - leaving aside for the moment the many individual charter school scandals - every time a charter school closes, millions of dollars disappear, completely unaccounted for because charter schools rely on public dollars with little to no public oversight and with NO publicly elected school board. They open and close so often in St. Louis, I call them "Pop Up" schools. If charter schools are expanded to other jurisdictions, this is what they can look forward to. As the Network for Public Education makes clear in their extensively researched "NPE Toolkit on School Privatization": Charter schools are private entities that receive taxpayer money to operate privately controlled schools that do not have the same rules and responsibilities as public schools. Charter schools have become a vehicle for privatization of the public-school sector. While charters may have originally conceived to be locally run, independently operated schools accountable to parents and the community, in reality, most charter schools are now operated by private organizations. The charter school sector does not get better academic results than public schools and often performs worse. Charters sometimes appear to do better because they engage in policies and practices that control the types of students they choose to serve. Charter schools are not "better" than publicly governed public schools. The significant body of research on charters shows they generally do no better and often do worse than traditional public schools. Charter schools are not a "pathway out of poverty." There's no evidence charters produce better long-term outcomes for students. "High-performing" charter schools are an illusion. Even the best performing charter schools can trace some or all of their advantages to differences in the students they teach. They do not have to take any student like publics do—regardless of space, grade or time of the year. Charter schools can appear to outperform publicly governed public schools when they don't enroll the same types of students. Because charters tend to serve far fewer students with disabilities and fewer who don't speak English as their first language, they can appear to be higher performing. Many charters do not "backfill" when students leave or take older students. Others do not offer free or reduced-priced lunch or ask for parental donations. Charter schools keep only the students they want. Through various methods, like frequent suspensions and grade level retention, charter schools shed their most problematic students who must then return to local publicly governed schools that accept all students. ___ Charter schools, vouchers, open enrollment, the 4 day school week, weakening in child labor law - ultimately - ALL of these laws would lead to a Missouri and a US in which the only children who would receive a quality education would be the those who could afford to pay for it. The rest of our children would just go to work. Right now, billionaires - both Christians and liberarians - are pouring money into school privatization schemes and into these bills because they can reduce their tax burden in the short term by giving to various 501c3s now AND in the long term - by eliminating publicly funded, publicly governed public schools. I went to Yale and the University of Chicago. I know these people very well. They do not care about poor Black children in the City of St. Louis or poor white children in Springfield. Reject their schemes. Defend and support publicly funded, publicly governed public education so that ALL of our children may thrive. So that our state may thrive.

THE INFORMATION ON THIS FORM IS PUBLIC RECORD UNDER CHAPTER 610, RSMo.

Charter schools in Missouri are considered public schools because they are publicly funded, including by the Federal Department of Education although they are privately managed. This means that both the Federal government and the State of Missouri have influence over how children are educated. The governing board of a charter school is authorized to accept donations of any kind and to expend or use such gifts or donations.”Both of these bills state that the charter’s school board members (not elected by taxpayers) need only to reside in Missouri. Charter schools are governed by non-profit boards and must comply with the conditions of their “charter” agreement and performance contract. Unlike elected district boards, charter school boards are appointed and operate under Missouri Statutes that regulate non-profit organizations. They do not have to be local or live in the district, as our elected school board officials do. This is another open door for special interest groups.Currently funds for charter schools in Missouri are provided by the Missouri Department of Elementary and Secondary Education, DESE, through funds withheld from the school district where the charter school is located. The key argument for charter schools that they generate competition is simply not true. Had it been so, we would have seen some dramatic improvement in St. Louis Public Schools, due to their being near charters; but both SLPS and Kansas City Public Schools are still some of the worst in the state. Here are performance dare for these districts according to DESE’s own report for school year 22-23 for students performing at the proficient and advanced levels three in the Missouri Assessment Program Statistics:

because of an aggressive organization, Francis Howell Families, that has worked exceptionally hard to recruit and elect school board members who will hold the district accountable for results. Due to their structure, the Charter School Boards will not be elected by the parents and taxpayers of the district, and therefore, will not be accountable to DESE.One other point: Over half of the charter schools in Missouri have failed.Finally, Senator Bill Eigel has a bill, SB1005, which will essentially break up DESE and allocate its functions to other State agencies. The Legislative Sub-Committee fully supports Senator Eigel in this effort. Attached is information you can use in contacting the committee and providing your testimony against expanding charter schools into St. Charles County. If you have any questions about this, please contact me or any other member of the Legislative Sib-Committee. Terrill C, Herring
