Tina Turner, a true St. Louis icon, captivated the world not only with her electrifying performances but also with her resilience, grace, and unwavering spirit. Born Anna Mae Bullock in Nutbush, Tennessee, she rose to fame as the Queen of Rock 'n' Roll, redefining the music industry with her powerful voice and unparalleled stage presence. From her early days performing in St. Louis clubs to her legendary solo career, Tina shattered barriers and inspired generations with her raw talent and tenacity. Beyond her musical accomplishments, Tina's courage in overcoming personal struggles and her commitment to empowering others make her a beacon of hope and an enduring symbol of strength. St. Louis proudly claims Tina Turner as one of its own, honoring her legacy as a true testament to the city's vibrant cultural heritage.

I am Opposed to this Bill and another "Designation Day." We as a State are confusing our Great Residents In keeping track of all of these Days, Weeks and Months. We are clouding the waters and over-saturating the real meaning and effect on the what this person did to our State. What about all of the other Great Missourians that are being missed and not remembered with their great contributions to our State? This Legislation is picking winners and losers and is unfair to our State.
