I knew a young man that was full of life. He always had a smile on his face. I watched him play soccer as a young boy and thru the fall of his sophomore year. That fall he volunteered to coach an under 8 team. He taught those kids skills but most importantly a love for the game. Those little kids looked up to him. A few short months later he took his precious life because of sextortion. It shook everyone who knew him. It shook our entire community, and our soccer family. Little kids that adored their coach had to see the bad of our world... just because of greed. No family, child, or community should have to experience this. We must hold those accountable that prey on our children. Evan was an inspiration to many of us. He was a light. I stand with his family, friends, and community in support of Evan, as well as Sophie's Law. We must do better and we must protect our children.

Dear House of Representatives --

I wholeheartedly support this bill and ask that you do so with your YES vote, as well.

My organization sees the effects of Child Sex Abuse Material and trafficking of adults and children on a daily basis as we help survivors begin the process of restoring their lives as enduring the trauma of sexual exploitation and trafficking.

This bill is a step in the right direction to getting at the DEMAND side of trafficking; and most would agree that until demand is reduced, this crime will continue to grow.

Chairman Jones and members of the Children and Families Committee:

On behalf of the Missouri Coalition Against Domestic and Sexual Violence (MOCADSV) and its almost one hundred member agencies who provide services to the state's victims of domestic violence, sexual assault and rape, stalking, and teen dating violence, we thank you for the opportunity to provide testimony regarding House Bill 2273, sponsored by Rep. Ed Lewis.

We are in support of HB 2273 and its efforts to address trafficking and exploitation.

Renewing a statewide task force to continue to focus on this effort is important in that we have witnessed again and again that initiatives that create change for victims require ongoing commitment and focus from a variety of partners. We are in agreement with the recommendations offered by the Missouri Network Against Child Abuse regarding combining the two task forces in order to streamline the efforts of all partners working to end trafficking in Missouri. One request for amendment would be that a member of the task force requirements would include someone from the state's anti-trafficking advocacy coalition or their representative.

Expanding the statute of limitations to acknowledge the time it takes for victims to reconcile the abuse they have sustained and then to be able to seek justice is to be commended.

Thank you for your consideration of this important legislation.

Committee Chair Representative Holly Jones, members of the committee, thank you for the opportunity to speak today. My name is Lucy Bloom and I'm here to express strong support for HB 2273.

Human trafficking is not a distant or abstract problem. It is happening in Missouri at a scale that demands a stronger, more coordinated response. According to the National Human Trafficking Hotline, Missouri consistently ranks among the top states for reported trafficking cases. In the most recent annual data, more than 300 cases were reported in a single year — and experts widely agree that the true number is significantly higher because trafficking is chronically under-reported.

What's especially important for this committee is that minors make up a substantial portion of identified victims. Nationally, the average age of entry into trafficking is estimated to be between 12 and 14 years old. In Missouri, child-welfare agencies, schools, and healthcare providers are often the first to encounter victims or children at risk. That means the systems under this committee's jurisdiction are on the front lines of both prevention and intervention.

HB 2273 strengthens Missouri's anti-trafficking framework in ways that directly support those frontline systems. By tightening definitions, improving coordination, and clarifying responsibilities, the bill helps ensure that warning signs are recognized earlier and that agencies can act more decisively. Research from multiple states shows that when reporting pathways are clearer and inter-agency communication improves, victim identification rates increase and recovery times improve.

The bill also aligns with what data tells us about how trafficking actually works. Studies show that over 60% of child trafficking victims had prior contact with social services, and many had interacted with mandated reporters who lacked the tools or clarity to intervene effectively. HB 2273 helps close that gap by strengthening the legal and procedural framework around those interactions.

Finally, the long-term impact of trafficking on children is profound. Survivors face higher rates of PTSD, depression, substance use, homelessness, and chronic health problems. These outcomes create long-term costs for families, communities, and state systems. Strengthening anti-trafficking laws is not only a moral imperative — it is a fiscally responsible one. Early intervention and prevention consistently cost less than long-term recovery and crisis response.

HB 2273 is a practical, evidence-based step toward protecting Missouri's most vulnerable children. It reflects what the data shows, what frontline professionals experience, and what families across the state need.

I respectfully urge the committee to support this bill and help ensure that Missouri continues moving forward in the fight against trafficking.

Thank you for your time and for your commitment to the safety and well-being of Missouri's children.

I am Opposed to this Bill. This is a duplication of services, laws. This Bill Creates yet another Committee, another Task-Force, another Council that never do any thing and the Reports Collect Dust. This Bill creates yet another Fund and yet another Mandate on Local Public Safety Officials and first-Responder that already are being highly Trained on this subject and in this field. Enough is enough.
